DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (if known) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Exterior: This one-story house with truncated hipped roof was constructed c. 1850 as a summer residence for the Jacob M. Dantzer family of Orangeburg County. As originally built, the house was rectangular with identical side facades. The original cypress shingle roof has been covered with galvanized metal. The house sits some seven feet above ground upon brick pilings with lattice framework between the supports. The northern (front) facade has wooden steps leading to a piazza with flat roof supported by six square paneled columns. Double front doors, which have glass upper panels, are surrounded by rectangular transom and sidelights. Front entrance is flanked on either side by two double-sash windows which, like all other windows, have louvred shutters and pediment-shaped lintels. Eastern facade is as originally built: eight windows with no projections. Remodeling conducted between 1901 and 1908 included the addition of a walk-in bay and rectangular projection from the western facade. Dentil work under the flat roof projections and Victorian trim were also added at this time. Renovations to the southern (rear) facade included the addition of a small room with shed roof to the west of the rear porch. Rear roof line is as originally built: two medium gables joined by a truncated hipped section. There are four straddle-ridge corbeled brick chimneys symmetrically located along the roof line.

Interior: A wide central hallway runs the length of the house and has three rooms on either side. The hallway can be divided by large folding doors located twenty feet from the front entrance. Doorways have architrave molding and large transoms. Walls and ceiling of the hallway are covered with narrow pine stripping. Carved wooden mantels, heart pine flooring, and symmetrical molding and paneling around the windows accent the interior view of the six rooms.

Surroundings: The Crutchfield House is located in the center of a five-acre lot planted with many flowering shrubs and trees, including numerous magnolias. Also located on the grounds are an old barn, several sheds, a small visitors' cottage, and a large pigeon house of lattice-work construction.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Architectural Significance: The Crutchfield House is the oldest standing residence in St. Matthews, a town whose history dates to pre-Revolutionary times. The integrity of house's simple yet functionally comfortable and aesthetically attractive design has been adequately maintained over the years. It is an excellent representative of Southern ante-bellum summer house construction and has been admirably adapted as a permanent residence. The present owner plans to turn the house over to the Calhoun County Historical Commission for use as a local museum.

Political and Military Significance: In 1852 Olin Miller Dantzler, son of Jacob Dantzler, married and moved into this summer house as his permanent residence. Though a planter by profession in the Orangeburg district, Olin Dantzler served his state and country both politically and militarily. He was a member of the South Carolina House of Representatives from 1852 until elected to the South Carolina Senate in 1858. With the tension growing rapidly between North and South, Olin Dantzler tried to convince his fellow legislators that peaceful compromise was better than military confrontation. He offered compromise proposals and investigated their status through correspondence with various political figures in Washington, including his close friend, Cong. Lawrence M. Keitt, U. S. Representative from the Orangeburg district, and Senator (later Secretary of State under Lincoln) William H. Seward, one of the Senate committee of thirteen constituted to consider means of composing the situation.

Though strongly opposed to the Civil War, he resigned himself to its inevitability and received a leave of absence from his senatorial duties to join the Confederate forces in 1861. He enlisted as a private in the 20th South Carolina Volunteers. Later transferred to the 22nd South Carolina Volunteers, he quickly moved up to the rank of lieutenant-colonel by early 1864. He was promoted to brigadier-general later that year, but on June 2, 1864, he fell at the Battle of Bermuda Hundred, Virginia, before the news commission had reached him.
