Description

Hewn-timber tobacco barn with steep, metal-covered gable roof. Metal-roofed shed, which is supported by undressed wood posts, surrounds all sides. Gable ends are weatherboarded. Arched brick firebox and brick flue are located on right elevation. Three-fourths of chimney has been rebuilt with cement block. Wood plank (1" x 6") doors are located on facade and rear.

Significance

The Dew Barn, which is essentially intact, is a significant example of tobacco barn construction in Dillon and Marion Counties from ca. 1895 to the 1950s. The barn is believed to have been constructed before 1935.

Acreage

.57 acres
